SENSATIONAL ROASTING.

A MEMORABLE DAY IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana, and John J. Ingalls, of Kansas, lambast Each Other Unmercifully to the Delight of a Large Audience—A Disgraceful Scene.

DANIEL W. VOORHEES.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—At the conclusion of Mr. Ingalls' speech in the senate Mr. Blackburn sent to the desk records to be read in correction of what he said were historical inaccuracies of Mr. Ingalls. Mr. Voorhees then rose and began his speech by applying skillfully the old story of the labor of the mountain and the production of a mouse. He did not regard Mr. Ingalls' speech as a good enough show for the promise in the advertisement. He alluded to the newspaper comment on his—Voorhees—speech last week, that it has served to galvanize a corpse. The senator from Kentucky had most effectually disposed of the senator from Kansas and it had not been his purpose to antagonize Ingalls individually, but he had been brought incidentally in his antagonism of the Republican party.

The senator from Kansas was like a feeble old gentleman in Indianapolis, who averred that he had been dead for a year and was merely walking around to save funeral expenses. He had galvanized the corpse, but the performance of the dead man had been disappointing. There had not been the volcanic action that was foreshadowed in the portentous announcement of the Kansas senator.

Touching the report that he had called the Union soldiers "Lincoln dogs," "Lincoln hirelings," and that he had advised them to iron collars put on their necks, he declared that was a stale, putrid falsehood, that he had trampled on and stamped out in forty campaigns. It was so base a lie, so infamous a falsehood that the black wall of perdition could produce nothing like it. He kicked it, spurned and despised it, and declared that it was possible for the man who related this lie to become as bad as those who invented it.

These stories raked up by the senator from Kansas had been exploded long ago. Since then, Voorhees, had been indorsed by the people in Indiana time and time again. He had been elected to the house when the soldiers were home to vote and he had carried the state by large majorities and been repeatedly sent to the senate. He had never been followed to the doors of the United States senate by an investigating committee, and he had never been whitewashed.

Mr. Voorhees said Mr. Ingalls was mistaken if he supposed he was the central object of his speech. "I was raised on a farm," said Mr. Voorhees, "and I have seen the peacock sit on the barn-yard fence and admire his own feathers and vocalize the neighborhood." The senator from Kansas was not the only bird of beauty on the Republican side.

Mr. Voorhees said he could afford to despise and contemn the reckless charges of the senator from Kansas, who was born with inaccuracy stamped upon him. "If he appeared as my long lost brother," said Voorhees, "I would strip him and look for the mark of inaccuracy."

The Indiana senator then took up Ingalls' apology for an explanation of his attack on McClellan and Hancock, and declared it to be a miserable afterthought. He quoted from Ingalls' speech when he declared that in 1864 McClellan ran on a platform declaring to be a failure the war which he had been trying to make a failure for two years. This was an absolute charge of treason against McClellan as a military man. No bitterer charge could have been made even against Benedict Arnold. Mr. Voorhees dwelt on this point, and then proceeded to show how the platform of 1864 had been garbled, and read copious extracts from McClellan's letter of acceptance, showing that he was ardently devoted to the Union cause. He told how the Union soldiers were devoted to McClellan, how they stood by him and had confidence in him, even after six days of misfortune, which culminated on the seventh day in Malvern Hill, where the Confederates met with an overthrow that was almost fatal to them.

He alluded to Ingalls' assertion that the Democratic candidate for the presidency had been in illicit intercourse with the degraded elements, and said that in a pamphlet copy of his speech the senate had expunged "degraded" and inserted "subservient". Mr. Voorhees read from Mr. Ingalls' autobiography in the Congressional Directory. He told that the senator from Kansas had been in congress a good many years, and that in each issue of the directory he seemed to have a remarkable memory as to every petty position he had held, but it was only about two years ago that he remembered that he was a "major, lieutenant colonel and judge advocate of volunteers." He was not a man of that military record that justified him in attacking Union generals.

Mr. Ingalls saved the hardest knocks for his second speech. He reserved his documents till he could draw from Voorhees details of certain statements. Although the Indianan had most positively denied certain stories, Ingalls was bound to get his documents in. He read an affidavit signed by about a dozen people said to be residents of Indiana, one of them a woman, to the effect that Voorhees had made the assertion about "Lincoln dogs," "Lincoln hirelings," etc., as charged. Ingalls read these from newspaper clippings, which were conveniently pasted on white sheets of paper. He intimated that Voorhees had been a member of the Knights of the Golden Circle, which charge Voorhees immediately denounced as false.

Mr. Ingalls went through a mass of papers, having collected all the information about the old story that when Mr. Voorhees vacated his law office in Indiana a lot of treasonable documents were found in it, including 120 copies of the ritual of the Knights of the Golden Circle, treasonable communications from Vallandigham, Jacob Thompson and others; letters pertaining to the purchase of arms for the Confederates, documents about 100,000 men who were to be sent from Indiana in aid of the rebellion, etc. These papers were there taken charge of by Gen. Carrington.

Ingalls said further that Voorhees, in an address to his constituents in 1861, said he would not vote for a dollar or a man for the war, "and," added the Kansas senator, "he never did." His, Ingalls', military record had been obscure, but he at least was always on the side of his country, while the senator from Indiana was against it.

Mr. Voorhees declared that he had voted for every dollar in the war and for every stitch of clothing the Union soldiers wore. He had never issued such an address as the senator from Kansas alluded to. "The man who says otherwise," he continued, "is a falsifier and a slanderer, and I brand him as such."

The discussion was now approaching a climax, and was of the running description. Voorhees defended his record during the war, and said he had been repeatedly indorsed by the people of Indiana, who had refuted and exploded the old slanders which had been brought up. Ingalls said he had been indorsed only by the Democrats of Indiana, and then alluded to the affidavit about what Voorhees should have said in his speech at Sullivan, and said he was informed that those who made the affidavit were people of veracity, and in an insinuating way he seemed to insist that they had spoken the truth.

Voorhees arose from his seat and denounced them as liars, "and," he added, "the senator is a great liar when he repeats what they say, and I pass it back to the scoundrel behind you who instigated the lie."

The man who was behind Ingalls was Representative Johnson, of Terre Haute, Ind., who had come over from the house to see the circus.

The sergeant-at-arms was instructed to arrest anyone making a noise, but still the crowd which filled every seat, crowded the aisles and lined the walls of the gallery applauded, hissed and laughed uproariously.

LOYAL LEGION.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The Loyal Legion held a grand banquet at the Burnett house this city this evening. The lobby and banquet hall of the hotel were in a blaze of glory and the decorations were extremely fine.

"Scenes in Georgia during the war," Capt. Thomas Speed, St. Louis.

"Comradeship," ex-President Hayes.

"The dead," closing toast, drank in silence.

The little tri-color button badge of the members of the Loyal Legion is exactly the same that is worn by Frenchmen who have won the distinction of the cross of the Legion of Honor. The badges are all imported from France by especial permission granted the Loyal Legion by that government.

A MISSISSIPPI TRAGEDY.

An Editor and Postmaster Have a Shoot-ing Match—Both Dead.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 3.—Gen. Wirt Adams, a prominent citizen of Mississippi and John H. Martin, editor of the New Mississippi, shot each other dead, Tuesday.

The quarrel grew out of politics and prohibition and indirectly out of the Gambrell-Hamilton shooting, a year ago. Hamilton had been on trial and was lately acquitted for the murder of Gambrell. The Martin brothers have assailed Hamilton and his friends, prominent among whom was Gen. Adams. Adams was postmaster. He had been prominent in the Confederate army.

The shooting occurred at Jackson, Miss., where Adams was postmaster. A witness says that he was talking with Gen. Adams when Martin met him. Adams accosted Martin saying: "You rascal, I have stood enough from you." Martin replied: "If you don't like it!" and simultaneously with the remark he drew a pistol, fired and got behind a large tree half a foot in diameter. Gen. Adams also fired about the same time; but the witness, though not certain, thinks Martin shot first. Martin was a young man and had a brilliant reputation as an editor. Adams was sixty-nine years old and a native of Kentucky.

Stanley Probably Dead.

LONDON, May 3.—Great fears are entertained that Stanley has succumbed to the war like natives or the climate. A letter from Emin Bey, who is located on the White Nile, and to relieve whom Stanley started, has been heard from, and he says he had heard nothing of Stanley, although he had found that his relief stores had reached Usambara, near Mslala. The long silence of Stanley in the wilds of Africa is a strong argument in favor of his death.

Death of Demas Barnes.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Demas Barnes, formerly proprietor of the Brooklyn Argus, died Tuesday of apoplexy, at the age of sixty-one years. He made a fortune estimated at $300,000 in patent medicines and speculation. He was at one time prominent in Brooklyn politics.

POLITICIANS IN COUNCIL.

SEVERAL STATE AND DISTRICT CONVENTIONS.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 3.—During the evening session of the Republican state convention, Governor Waterman mounted the platform and said: "Gentlemen, I want you to do your duty and send delegates to Chicago, who will vote for Blaine and Lincoln." This remark was received with applause.

Senator Stanford was condemned for voting for Lamar's confirmation.

The following delegates to the National convention were then elected: Delegates-at-large—John L. Swift, Creed Haymond, M. M. Eslee, of San Francisco, and H. T. Gage, of Los Angeles.

District delegates—H. W. Byington, J. T. Ellison, D. E. Knight, A. M. Simpson, R. D. Robbins, Elie Denison, C. A. Crocker, M. H. De Young, T. C. Frank, B. S. Osborne, W. H. Diamond and Paris Kilbourne.

The delegates were not instructed.

The platform adopted condemns the National Democratic administration for hoarding and making a surplus by mismanagement; declares for the full remonetization of silver and its free coinage; condemns the free trade principles of the president and the Democratic party, and favor full protection by tariff of American industries and labor.

Pennsylvania Prohibitionists.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 3.—About six hundred enthusiastic delegates are in attendance to the state Prohibition convention, which convened in the opera house. The convention will elect four delegates-at-large and fifty-six district delegates to the National Prohibition convention as well as a candidate for judge of the supreme court.

After devotional exercises and singing, the regular proceedings of the convention opened with the reading of the call by Chairman Barker, whose appearance upon the stage was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

The man who was behind Ingalls was Representative Johnson, of Terre Haute, Ind., who had come over from the house to see the circus.

The sergeant-at-arms was instructed to arrest anyone making a noise, but still the crowd which filled every seat, crowded the aisles and lined the walls of the gallery applauded, hissed and laughed uproariously.

THURSDAY EVEN'G, MAY 3, 1888.

THE President seems to have pleased everybody in his appointment of Melville W. Fuller for Chief Justice. Republicans unite with the Democrats in praising the selection. Of course, it is just Cleveland's luck.

WHEN the President of the United States Senate leaves his chair and stoops to reiterate statements against a brother member that have been refuted time and again he deserves the treatment Ingalls received at the hands of Vorhees. The language of the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash" may not have been parliamentary. What of that? Ingalls took the floor and deliberately and knowingly gave utterance to a pack of lies about Vorhees. Vorhees branded them as lies on the instant, and in doing so did just what most any one else would have done.

COUNTY ASSESSMENT.

The State Board of Equalization Makes a Reduction on Land and an Increase on Personality.

The State Board of Equalization, that had been in session at Frankfort some time, finished its work and adjourned a few days ago, and County Clerk Ball has received a notice from Auditor Hewitt of the changes made in the figures reported from this county.

The Board made a reduction of 4 per cent. in the assessment of land, and an increase of 7 per cent. on that of personal property subject to equalization. The assessment of town and city lots was not changed. The following figures will prove of interest:

ASSESSED VALUATION.

Town and city lots	2,010,040
Personal property subject to equalization	1,013,225
Personal property not subject to equalization	844,705
Total	$9,271,662

BOARD VALUATION.

Land	$5,187,544
Town and city lots	2,010,040
Personal property subject to equalization	1,084,151
Personal property not subject to equalization	844,705
Total	$9,126,440
Total reduction	8,216,148
Total increase	70,926
Net reduction	$145,222

The rate of taxation for State purposes will be 47 $\frac{1}{2}$  cents of the \$100, if the Legislature should make no change. At the above rate the amount of State taxes to be collected in Mason County this year will be about \$43,350.

A bill is now pending in the Legislature to reduce the rate of taxation for State purposes to 42 cents on the $100.

Echoes From the Portsmouth Excursion.

The following clippings are from the Daily Blade, of Portsmouth: "Dr. J. W. Cartmell a young molar mechanic of Maysville, was with the boys from that city.

"The St. Lawrence was advertised to reach here at one o'clock and struck the wharf just one minute before that time by Capt. Shedd's big balance chronometer.

"Chero' Smith, the Maysville cigar manufacturer, that comes down like a cyclone on our merchants who deal in smoking stock, was one of the component parts of the St. Lawrence excursion.

"Capt. Bruce Redden and Colonel George Rosser, inspired by the Barnum lithographs, entered into a partnership to start a show of their own next season.

"The report that Jimmy Redmond, of Maysville, set his watch by the steam gauge of the St. Lawrence was a chestnut. It was on a former occasion that Jimmy displayed that confidence in the ability of the engineer to keep the steam even with the time of day.

"The Maysville band won the laurels for fine music, and Professor Tudor, the leader, was as proud as a young American on his first full dress parade. The music rendered at the Biggs House in the evening as they were on their way to the St. Lawrence, was among the finest ever heard in the city, and won rounds of justly earned applause. The hunter's scene was very realistic.

"Strange how music works some men. Capt. Bill Abbott, mate of the Handy, and a man who usually carries a head as cool as an elderberry bouquet, lost his balance when the St. Lawrence came in with the Maysville band playing an air appropriate to the occasion. Some men were at work in the hold of the boat, and Abbott thinking there ought to be some demonstration from above, ran to the hatchway and shouted out:

"How many of you fellows are down there?"

"Three," came back the answer from below.

"Well, what do you want with three men down there?" roared the Commodore. "One half you come out and holler for this band."

THE FROST ELVES.

All night the frost elves in the starlight go; Their wings are white on meadow land and vale, Their feet on mountain tops and lakes below Dance to the icy music of the hall. They make the voice of hive and river fail, And round about the moon of vapor frail. Their eyes are glittering in the freezing dew— Keen, radiant spirits are they; but not glad! Their kisses kill the flowers they press them to; They could not find in all their straying sad So much exuberance of green and blue; As April in a single violet had!

DARK Waters of Canadian Rivers.

The water of the Saguenay appears to be as black as tar until air bubbles are mixed with it, as in breaking seas or the wake of a steamboat; it then shows its real color to be that of brandy. It receives its color from inland rivers, which pass through swamps filled with moss and other highly colored roots and vegetable matter. Nearly all the rivers and lakes north of the St. Lawrence present the same appearance. A waterfall in the sunshine seems to be a sheet of liquid amber.

In paddling about the shallower bays and reefs the bunches of olive green seaweed, the reddish rocks, the gray pebbles, now and then suggested a painter's palette lying in a basin of golden wine; and the air bubbles drawn downward at the end of the paddle seem to fringe it with amber colored gems. In the shadows and the reflections of rocks and trees the water has a remarkably black surface; when a ripple there catches the light of the sky it is intensely luminous by contrast; and if a smoky air happens to give the sunset a ruddy hue while a breeze blows, then the sullen current looks like a dark molten metal stirred into ripples of flame.—C. H. Farnham in Harper's Magazine.

He Had a Poetic Imagination.

(Theodinkle Brown comes into the house at 10 o'clock with a bleeding nose.)

Mrs. B.—Theo, what has happened?

Mr. B.—Stumbled over a post that some idiot left lying across the walk in the front yard out there.

Mrs. B.—A post? You are mistaken. No one left a post there.

Mr. B.—Couldn't I see it? It's moonlight and bright as day.

Mr. B.—A post across the walk!

Mr. B.—You come out and look for yourself. See that post lying there? That's what done it.

Mr. B.—Theodinkle Brown, that is nothing but the shadow of the trunk of that pine tree!

Mr. B.—It is, hey? Well, what if it is? Don't you know (hic) that the shadow of a pine tree is just as hard a thing to kick against and fall over as the shadow of a hickory tree? Sing'lar some women don't know anything after moonlight.—Detroit Free Press.

Another Alabama Lynching.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 3.—Two miners created an affray at Warrior, this county, Tuesday evening. One of them, George Morton, shot and killed Deputy Marshal Kelly. He was arrested and put in the calaboose. Lynching being threatened by the citizens and rescue by the miners, the mayor of Warrior telegraphed this city asking for a posse to resist the mob and protect the prisoner. Later the Warrior officers smuggled Morton aboard the caboose of a freight train for this city. A mob followed and cut loose the caboose. They hung Morton and filled his body with bullets.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC TUNNEL COMPLETED.
ST. PAUL, Minn., May 3.—The great tunnel through the Cascade mountains, on the Northern Pacific road, will let daylight through the rock to-day. The crowds of workmen which have been working from both sides are now within hearing distance, and will meet this afternoon. The tunnel, which is 9,900 feet long, is through solid rock nearly all the way, and has been finished as the work proceeds. When the final piercing is accomplished there will be nothing left to do but to lay a track. Trains will be running through it two weeks from to-morrow. The tunnel was begun early in 1886, and the contract was for about $2,000,000.

Fatally Kicked By a Horse.

ALLIANCE, O., May 3.—Peter White-leather, aged sixty-five years, a retired farmer, residing at North Georgetown, a few miles east of this city, upon entering a pen in his barnyard yesterday, in which were a mare and young colt, received a kick in the abdomen from the vicious brute, and sustained injuries which resulted in his death last night. He leaves a wife and family of five grown children in comfortable circumstances.

MEANS' AND DECAMP'S CASES POSTPONED.
CINCINNATI, May 3.—Judge Jackson has postponed the cases of William Means and John R. DeCamp, president and vice president of the Metropolitan bank, until fall term of court. Mr. Means is in a very serious condition, and Dr. Dowling says he could not possibly appear for trial this month. It is the impression that Mr. Means will not live.

Killed While Blasting.

IRONTON, O., May 3.—Thomas Dalton, an iron digger at Etina Furnace, was killed Tuesday. He was blasting lime, and had touched off a blast and ran away a short distance, stopping to watch the effect of the shot, when a large piece of ore struck him in the breast, killing him instantly. He is fifty-five years old and leaves a large family.

Canada All Right.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 3.—The senate has unanimously adopted the fishery ratification bill without amendment. The bill only requires the governor general's assent to become a law.

KENTUCKY ASSEMBLY APPOINTED A COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE RAILROAD INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE. WHICH IS ACCUSED OF EMPLOYING A PINKERTON DETECTIVE TO DOG THE SERENE SOLONS THEMSELVES, WHICH IS OVERDOING THE INVESTIGATING BUSINESS, EVEN FOR A LEGISLATIVE BODY.

CANNON CHORUS SET HIM CRAZY.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 3.—The shock of Gilmore's cannon chorus has upset the mind of a young countryman named Henry Sanderston, who is now insane, and all efforts to control his ravings are without avail.

RIVERSIDE.The Thrifty Little Village in the West End to be Known as "Plugtown" no Longer.

Plugtown is the appellation heretofore given to a thriving little village adjoining the West End. Now, why it is called Plugtown we residents and sojourners are bewildered to know. There are no plugs here—no plug houses, no plug business of any kind, no plug ugles, and nothing at all in harmony with such a name. In our midst we have a pork-packing establishment, grain house, tobacco warehouse, foundry, lately built, large beef butchering industry, a store, blacksmith shop and three large distilleries turning out yearly about 4,500 barrels of the best Bourbon whisky in the world. Of the population there are skilled distillers, brewers, carpenters, harness makers, stone-cutters, plumbers, plasterers, gardeners, railroad contractors, chemists, wood carvers, loyal Democratic revenue officers, gas experts and pretty women. On the whole it is a highly respectable part of the world, and as its location adjoins the growing city of Maysville, extending above high water mark along down the bank of the beautiful Ohio we propose that henceforth it shall be called Riverside, and that Plugtown be known no more.

Pogue &amp; Thomas will soon erect on Second street a three-story warehouse for the storage of whisky, with a capacity of 3,000 barrels.

Zweigart Bros. have thoroughly remodeled and repaired their residence, giving it a very handsome appearance.

Poyntz Bros. new warehouse, among the best in the State for storage of whisky, has been lately completed, having a capacity of 4,000 barrels.

Jake Wormald has added a two-story front to his dwelling, making a large and commodious residence.

Property in Riverside is fast increasing in value and as its location is high and healthful, commanding a magnificent view embracing in its scope all Maysville and a gorgeous landscape far up and down and across the river on which the eye can dwell with wonder and delight, it is destined at no distant day to become a town of much attraction and increased importance.

A Prominent Citizen and Farmer
Drops Dead This Morning.

M. W. Duryea died very suddenly at his home near Maysick at an early hour this morning. He had been in the enjoyment of usual health of late, and the sad news of his death was a surprise to his friends and relatives. Yesterday he was in this city attending court, and was expected here to-day. While making preparations to leave home this morning, he suddenly sank to the floor and expired in a few minutes. His death is attributed to heart disease.

The deceased was an esteemed citizen of that place. He was about fifty years of age. His wife, who was Miss Mary Sanford Mitchell, a sister of Orville S. Mitchell, survives him. He leaves no children.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Presbyterian Church in Maysick, services by Rev. W. T. Spears.

THE EUROPEAN STRUGGLE.

Russian Forces on the Austrian Frontier

LONDON, May 3.—Advices received at the foreign office indicate a probable Greek rising in Macedonia, such a movement being encouraged by Russia, in order to bring about a crisis on the eastern question.

The Montenegrin raid into Servia was connected with the plot. If diplomatic representations by the British minister at Athens do not result in satisfactory assurances, England, Austria and Italy will send a squadron to the Piraeus.

The dispatch might have added that the uprising of the Greeks in the island of Crete against the Turkish government is also a part of the Russian plot. Greece is always at the disposal of Russia for the purpose of disturbing the peace of Europe. It was so in 1853 and prior to the last Turk-Russian war. The supreme idea of little Greece is the extension of her territory at the expense of Turkey. Thessaly, Epirus and Macedonia, she wants them all, and it is through Russia that she hopes to extend her borders. She is only to eager on the least encouragement from the latter to stir up insurrection among the Greeks within the Turkish frontiers, the line of which at the conclusion of the last war was not settled.

The war was kept from attacking Turkey then by the assurance of England that she would gain more by remaining quiet when the time for settlement came. A clause was inserted in the Berlin treaty that formed a basis for the fulfillment of the promise, but it has yet to be fulfilled. This is the most promising war blossom that has appeared this spring. Russia is using Greece as a whip to thrash Turkey into compliance with Russia's demand that the latter shall by invasion, if necessary, oust Ferdinand from the throne of Bulgaria.

The following dispatch has been received from Athens, Greece: "Instructions have been forwarded to the Greek minister at Constantinople to sever diplomatic relations with the porte and withdraw."

Greece would not take such a step except under protection of an alliance with Russia. It is reported that Russia is moving additional troops toward the Austrian frontier. This is announced by the German Cologne Gazette and the Vienna papers.

Why Carnot Took the Tour.

LONDON, May 3.—President Carnot is, of course, credited with making his trip to the south of France in the interest of his party and in the hope of creating a boom that may in a measure distract public attention from the Boulangist demonstrations. The presence of the ministers of marine and public works serves to give color to the rumors that the inspection of Toulon and the vessels of the fleet in the vicinity is preliminary to an increase of naval force in the Mediterranean and large expenditures on the works around that important station.

The red carnation is for the moment super-eminent, but the color is an omen of dread to all conservative Frenchmen, one of the most distinguished of whom is reported to have said yesterday with a touch of Gallic hyperbole:

"The lily and the violet have had their dramas: shall this charlatan complete the trilogy with the last tint of the tri-color?"

Paris News.

PARIS, May 3.—The Duc De Gramont was slightly wounded in a duel with M. Rambaud yesterday. Both are members of the Jockey club and the duel grew out of a dispute over turf matters.

Senator Naquet was excluded from the meeting of his colleagues of the extreme left on account of his Boulangist proclivities.

The government has decided to prosecute M. Paul Droulede upon a charge of nocturnal bawling on the occasion of the Boulanger banquet last Friday evening.

Mr. Chamberlain and Miss Endicott,
LONDON, May 3.—The Star of last evening says: "Mr. Chamberlain took the opportunity at a large dinner which he gave on Saturday of declaring emphatically that he was engaged to Miss Endicott. Around the hospitable board of the ex Radical member for Birmingham on that occasion were assembled Mr. Arthur Balfour, Col. Sanderson and Lord Randolph Churchill—birth, bigotry and brass in its moral sense. Under its material aspect that metal was represented by Mr. Vanderbilt, who is worth about £38,000,000."

Depositions and Warrants Stolen.

DUBLIN, May 3.—On resuming the trial of Mr. William O'Brien, member of parliament, here, the magistrate announced that during the night previous the sessions office had been entered by burglars, who had stolen depositions and warrants relating to the case, and that it would be necessary to open the case again from the beginning.

Race for 2,000 Guineas.

LONDON, May 3.—The 2,000 guinea race was run at Newmarket. The Duke of Portland's brown colt, Ayrshire, was first; the same owner's brown colt, Johnny Morgan, second, and the Duke of Westminster's chestnut colt, Orbit, third.

Dynamite Scare Again.

LONDON, May 3.—The dynamite outcry threatens again arise. The police pretend to have been informed that a group of dynamiters sent by the Clan-na-Gael are on way to this country. A special watch has been placed at all the ports.

The Sultan Won't Arbitrate.

TANGIER, May 3.—The sultan refuses to submit the differences between Morocco and the United States in reference to the men imprisoned at Rabat to arbitration and the dispute has been reopened.

Foreign Notes.

Schurz is being lionized in Berlin. Rev. Charles Spurgeon is seriously ill. Emperor Frederick's fever is decreasing. The English government offers to owners of over twenty horses an annual retainer of ten shillings for each horse for the option of purchasing them in time of war.

A UNION BREWERY.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The union brewing deal is a go. President Alex. Dausmont, of the Banner Brewing company, has signed an agreement with Conrad Burkholder, president of the Union Saloonkeepers' association, to transfer 1,500 shares of the Banner stock for the consideration of $100,000.

There are 3,000 shares in the Banner company and the new stockholders will, therefore, hold the controlling interest. There are 100 saloonkeepers in the deal, and the entire sum has been subscribed.

Banner stock has been quoted at 40 per cent in the market, as the brewery is a new concern and has not yet been placed on a paying basis. It is boasted by the new stockholders that within the next three months Banner stock will be quoted above par.

The present capacity is 1,200 kegs a day. It can be easily increased to twice that amount by the construction of a few more cells.

None but union hands will be employed. There will be three sets of hands, and the brewery will run day and night. Eight hours will constitute a day's work. Employment will be given to all the locked out brewers in Cincinnati. All the old force at the Banner brewery will be discharged, including drivers and other help. Their places will be filled by the locked out brewers until they can be given work in the brewery. Only union malt and union kegs will be purchased. This will also give employment to the locked out cooperers. The locked out brewers are wild with enthusiasm and delight.

FIERCE FLAMES.

TRENTON, Kentucky, Almost Entirely Destroyed—Other Fires.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., May 3.—The town of Trenton, situated south of this city, on the railroad, was discovered to be on fire about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, and the flames spread so rapidly that almost the entire place was in ashes before daylight. It is not known how the fire originated. There being no engine in the town it was impossible to stay the progress of the flames. Twenty-five buildings, including the handsomest part of the place, were burned. The loss is estimated at $60,000. There is about $50,000 of insurance on the burned property.

Heavy Loss at Keithsburg, Illinois.

KEITHSBURG, Ill., May 3.—A fire here Tuesday morning destroyed J. Murie & Company's grocery store. Economy dry goods store, Dennis Burt's agricultural house, Dr. Olicut's drug store and the Magnet dry goods store. Loss, $50,000.

Sporting Notes.

Chicago club has secured George Borchers, a pitcher from California.

A match was arranged Tuesday evening for a ten-round glove contest between Peter J. Nolan and Mike Cleary, to take place in Louisville within five weeks.

TUESDAY'S BASE BALL.—Louisville 2, Cincinnati 18; Baltimore 7, Cleveland 12; Athletics 1, Brooklyn 2; Philadelphia 12, Washington 4; New York 6, Boston 1.

Joe Lamson, the heavy-weight pugilist, was given a benefit at Boston last night. He sparred the wind-up with Jack Ashton, and they seemed evenly matched.

Returned Prodigal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—A sensation was caused in the United States court by the entrance of Louis Rehm, who for thirteen years has been a fugitive from justice. In 1875 he was teller of the Planters' National bank and got away with $60,000. He afterwards returned it. He gave himself up today, but the prosecution against him will be dismissed.

The Weather.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Currency sixes, 18 1/4 bid; four coupons, 12 3/4 bid; four-and-a-half, 10 3/4 bid.

The stock market opened active and weak on the receipt of advices from London of lower prices for American securities. During the first thirty minutes prices declined 1/4 to 1 per cent. This was entirely recovered in the next hour, but toward noon there was a renewed pressure to sell and prices at the present writing are at the lowest of the morning, except for New York & New England and the ex-Villards.
